

Middleby Comments on Ali Group's Unsolicited and Non-Binding Indication of Interest to Acquire Welbilt

May 28, 2021 10:15 PM EDT

- Middleby believes its proposal to merge with Welbilt provides a superior offer compared to Ali Group's unsolicited non-binding indication of interest
- The unsolicited indication from Ali Group is both opportunistic and highly conditional with significant uncertainty
- Middleby's all-stock consideration allows Welbilt shareholders to participate in future upside opportunity, allowing for significantly greater long-term value creation
- Middleby and Welbilt today filed a preliminary joint proxy statement/prospectus and are already in the process of attaining necessary regulatory and shareholder approvals and on-track to complete the transaction by the end of the year

ELGIN, Ill.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--May 28, 2021-- The Middleby Corporation (NASDAQ: MIDD) today reiterated its commitment to completing its proposed merger with Welbilt, Inc. (NYSE: WBT), in face of the unsolicited and non-binding indication of interest from Ali Holding SRL ("Ali Group"). The proposed merger between Middleby and Welbilt, announced on April 21, 2021, will create a strong Commercial Foodservice platform with an attractive portfolio of products, brands and technologies. Middleby highlights that it has a definitive agreement to acquire Welbilt, and the regulatory approval process is already underway. Furthermore, Middleby and Welbilt today filed their preliminary joint proxy statement/prospectus on Form S-4 with the SEC in connection with obtaining required shareholder approvals.

"Middleby remains firmly committed to seeing our proposed merger with Welbilt through," said Tim FitzGerald, Middleby CEO. "The Ali Group's non-binding indication is highly opportunistic and conditional. We believe that the combination of Middleby and Welbilt can be completed with a high degree of certainty and deliver superior value to Welbilt's shareholders. Ali Group's non-binding proposal has a number of conditions, challenges and risks, all of which increase the uncertainty of achieving a completed transaction."

Tim FitzGerald also added, "we have strong confidence that the value of the proposed Middleby/ Welbilt merger is far superior to Welbilt's shareholders, allowing them to participate in the combined entity's future growth, realization of synergies, and our industry's continued recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. These upside opportunities are evidenced by the broker price targets for our company, the majority of which point to a significantly higher value to Welbilt's shareholders. Through our diligence process, we have built a working relationship with the Welbilt team and believe that our organizations have a strong cultural alignment, which will benefit both organizations in the long-term. Our proposed merger is also in the best interest of not only both companies' shareholders, but our customers, employees, distributors and other stakeholders."

In Summary, Middleby's Offer Comprises a Superior Proposal to Welbilt Shareholders

- Value: Ali Group's indication is opportunistic given Middleby's recent trading, but Middleby's proposal is clearly superior in value to Welbilt shareholders
- Upside Participation: The Middleby transaction provides Welbilt shareholders the opportunity to participate in future upside and the long-term growth of the combined company
- Synergies: We believe the clearly identified $120 million of synergies and operational improvements deliver substantial value to Welbilt's shareholders
- Timing: Middleby has completed its diligence and the shareholder and regulatory approval processes are already underway, all of which Ali Group has yet to begin; Middleby and Welbilt have additionally filed their preliminary joint proxy statement/prospectus with the SEC
- Financing: There is uncertainty around the financing (and the terms of any such financing) that Ali Group would need to obtain to fund the proposed transaction. On the other hand, Middleby's definitive agreement contains no financing conditions, and the combined company will maintain significant balance sheet capacity to pursue other value accretive investments benefiting both Middleby and Welbilt shareholders
- Certainty: There is significantly more uncertainty and risk associated with Ali Group's proposal for Welbilt's shareholders

Financing and Expected Timing

Middleby intends to refinance Welbilt's existing debt through its committed Senior Secured Facility. Based on the expected pro forma leverage ratio at closing, the interest on the incremental financing would be approximately L + 162.5 bps. The transaction is expected to close in late 2021, subject to customary closing conditions, including regulatory and Middleby and Welbilt shareholder approvals.
