ELGIN, Ill.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Aug. 6, 2025-- The Middleby Corporation (NASDAQ: MIDD), a leading worldwide manufacturer of equipment for the commercial foodservice, food processing, and residential kitchen industries, today reported net earnings for the second quarter of 2025.

Tim FitzGerald, CEO of The Middleby Corporation said, "Our second quarter results reflect the economic uncertainty our customers continue to navigate in key end markets. Despite these headwinds, I'm proud of our team's continued execution in areas within our control. We're delivering strong operational performance, gaining market share with new product launches, and growing the partnerships with our customers. While these quarterly results reflect our market conditions, they don't appropriately capture the fundamental transformation we've achieved across our business to drive long-term growth, particularly across innovation and go-to-market capabilities. We believe we have created an unmatched platform, and as the market inflects, Middleby is poised for outsized growth as we solve increasingly complex challenges for our growing customer base."

FitzGerald concluded, "Given our confidence in Middleby's trajectory, earlier this year we chose to allocate the vast majority of our free cash flow toward share repurchases as we do not believe our current market valuation reflects the substantial growth opportunities ahead of us. I am pleased to say we repurchased $323 million in the quarter and expect to continue deploying capital opportunistically. This will create significant leverage in our earnings per share as we execute against our plan."

USE OF NON-GAAP FINANCIAL MEASURES

The company supplements its consolidated financial statements presented on a GAAP basis with this non-GAAP financial information to provide investors with greater insight, increase transparency and allow for a more comprehensive understanding of the information used by management in its financial and operational decision-making. The non-GAAP financial measures disclosed by the company should not be considered a substitute for, or superior to, financial measures prepared in accordance with GAAP, and the financial results prepared in accordance with GAAP and reconciliations from these results should be carefully evaluated. In addition, the non-GAAP financial measures included in this press release do not have standard meanings and may vary from similarly titled non-GAAP financial measures used by other companies.

The company believes that organic net sales growth, adjusted EBITDA, non-GAAP adjusted segment EBITDA, net debt, net leverage, adjusted net earnings and adjusted diluted per share measures are useful as supplements to its GAAP results of operations to evaluate certain aspects of its operations and financial performance, and its management team primarily focuses on non-GAAP items in evaluating performance for business planning purposes. The company also believes that these measures assist it with comparing its performance between various reporting periods on a consistent basis, as these measures remove from operating results the impact of items that, in its opinion, do not reflect its core operating performance including, for example, intangibles amortization expense, impairment charges, restructuring expenses, and other charges which management considers to be outside core operating results.

The company believes that free cash flow is an important measure of operating performance because it provides management and investors with a measure of cash generated from operations that is available for mandatory payment obligations and investment opportunities, such as funding acquisitions, repaying debt and repurchasing our common stock.

The company believes that its presentation of these non-GAAP financial measures is useful because it provides investors and securities analysts with the same information that Middleby uses internally for purposes of assessing its core operating performance.
